“ Hi Michael, I want you to know that I love and miss you alot. Even though i always say that. But it's true. its very painful knowing you aren't here with us physically to go on any more Oaks Park rides with us, or to eat some slushies from 7-11 or to make some bomb diggidy burritos with you. I really wish you were here to ride in the car grampa got me for my birthday when i get my license. I miss hearing some of your pranks and calling people up and doing jokes. It's pretty sad that i'm smiling as I think about this, as i'm writing to you but i'm crying hardly inside to try to bring you back somehow even though it's not possible. I really need some new tricks and pranks though to pull on mom and thee boys! but you were the only one who knew how to pull them off good, and not get caught! and you were the only fun one to do them with because the girls even say it's just not the same because you are not here. Yeah michael, it's not your fault that you are gone, it was your time because everyone has a time to go. all of our clocks are ticking. so eventually we'll all be back together soon. For now, good bye, i Love you, please watch out for me and my sisters, and the whole family, okay. i was just thinking about you for a few days and knew i had to come visit your book and write you something. I hope this lightens your day. But anyways, I gotta go now because i have to log out and go to the bus soon. I'll come visit again soon!
