“ The family lived close to us when we were in Texas. Jesse was a young child then, just a few years younger than my boys, his cousins. I remember Jesse's eyes always sparkled with mischief, but he was so dang cute you just couldn't be mad, even if he was in trouble. He grew into such a giant of a man, but still had those eyes and smile that could melt your heart. Although Jesse is no longer walking on earth his memory will live on in the hearts of everyone who knew him, and especially as I see him in his beautiful daughters he loved so very much.

“ Long ago, when Steve first brought me home to his family to meet all of his brothers, they of course were used to roughhousing/wrestling with each other. Jesse (which was maybe 15 at the time) started messing with me, so I wrestled him right back (and maybe hurt him a little, which he would never admit to), so he was OK with me being around after that, LOL. I will miss him dearly. Much love to all of my Dorris family.

When I first came to Oregon Ice cream Jesse was interested in helping me to try and make production better. He was always willing to do anything, eager to help. His easy going manner and high intelligence made problem solving fun. He was a special person a team player and he will be missed. We were going to get together in mid April at the beach house. I know his whole family will miss him. I also miss W W
