“ "Oh Cisco!"

Every time I walked into Home Depot, I'd hear Bill from across the way letting me know he see's me. Bill was hilarious, whether it was making corny jokes, trading movie quotes, leaving me alone at the paint desk with a long line of customers just to go meet a puppy that walked into the store, or just giving me a piece of grandfatherly advice. I'm gonna miss him. A few years ago he showed up at my door out of the blue, just looking to catch up and chat just like the good ol' days at work. The next weekend he came over again to the house for a pay per view boxing match, six pack of Budweiser in hand. I knew he had a really great time, and so did I...love ya Bill.

“ I met Bill this year and I will always remember his calm, kind friendly ways. We all went to the coast and I saw Bill's face lite up when he saw the ocean. He really wanted to walk out to see that view. It was a beautiful moment. He also got me to join him in sneaking ice cream. Bill came to my 60th hippy birthday party and I was deeply moved that he dressed up for it. Please see the photo. I will see you in heaven one fine day. Thank you for the new meaning and memory for the song "love potion # 9". -Michele Maloney

“ Fond memories of his friendly smile and riding to Pietro's Pizza in the back of his pick up truck (back when you could still do things like that...).

So sorry for your loss.
